

Join us for a fun-filled day exploring the secret world of Sandy Point

A BioBlitz is a scientific treasure hunt and race against time. The goal is to count as many species (insects, plants, lichens, birds etc) as possible during the event.

We'll have experts on hand to help you identify your finds and guide you around the area. You can record your finds on the iNaturalist app, so download it from the app store before the event.

Meet at Daffodil Bay, Sandy Point, Otatara at any time during the day. Bring your own drink bottle and appropriate clothing.

For more information contact Environment Southland biodiversity programme coordinator Ali Meade on 0800 76 88 45.
